

East Stroudsburg Council Urges Thruway Speed

CLU Presents Resolutions For Hearing

EAST Stroudsburg Borough Council last night passed a resolution urging the State Highways Department and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads to speed action on the Route 611 Thruway because of a "critical and urgent need" to relieve congestion on the borough's streets.

It was pointed out that a public hearing on the Thruway will be held next Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the Monroe County Court-house.

Burgess Jesse R. Flory and Solicitor Charles Bensinger will represent the borough at the hearing and councilmen were urged to attend if possible.

Only one vote was cast against the resolution. It came from Harold Wiggins, First Ward councilman.

Two resolutions — from the Central Labor Union and its social club — advocating construction of the Thruway were placed in the minutes of the meeting and will also be presented at the public hearing.

Letter Authorized
Council authorized writing of a letter to the State Department of Forests and Waters assuring the agency that the borough will join Stroudsburg and Monroe County in sponsoring the local flood control project to the extent outlined in a letter written last Dec. 7.

"During a discussion, it was pointed out that the assurance of the local municipalities is necessary before the state agency will go ahead with completing plans for the project.

Burgess Flory said during the discussion on costs of the project, "Even if we have to submit it to a bond issue, I don't think we can afford not to go ahead."

The letter was authorized after a resolution of the county commissioners, passed Dec. 30, was read in which the county agreed to join in the cost of obtaining property and relocation of public utilities for the project.

In other action, Council Voted to ask the East Stroudsburg School Board to request school bus operators to discontinue unloading passengers in front of the high school building.

Referred to the planning commission the problem of traffic planning in connection with the proposed bridge between the two boroughs.

Deferred action on a suggestion that two lots on Spangenberg Ave. from which stamper was removed be advertised for sale.

Authorized Borough Secretary Sterling Cramer to advertise for bids for 2,000 feet of six-inch water pipe.

Reappointed Henry Leskne as water and streets superintendent; Durling Ace as his assistant; Jesse Frantz, janitor and street cleaner; George Englehardt, superintendent of the fire alarm system, and Edward C. Hess, borough engineer.

Two Delegates
Named Thomas Sexton delegate and Robert Staples alternate to the Mid-Eastern Counties Assn. of Boroughs.

Approved a two-week vacation with pay for full time borough employees after one year of service and agreed that the borough will purchase policemen's uniforms.

Set the bond of the borough treasurer at $10,000 for the borough fund and $10,000 for the police pension fund.

Authorized Hess to inspect Normal St. after John Bensley, a resident, complained of the condition of the street. "Bensley, a member of the housing authority, will bring the street's condition to the attention of the housing group.

Received a vote of thanks from the East Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn. for free parking privileges before Christmas and assistance with the group's sign project.

Delayed until a further meeting a request from borough firemen for permission to sell vendors' licenses to souvenir sellers and others during the four-county firemen's convention in June.

Agreed to provide no parking on the parade route for the three-hour parade in connection with the convention on Saturday, June 21.

Approved a salary of $1,800 a year for the borough health officer and $200 yearly for the secretary of the board of health.

Set Jan. 19 at 1:30 p.m. for a budget meeting and Jan. 28 at 7:30 p.m. for an adjourned meeting.

Gaither Report Under Wraps

PARIS, Jan. 7 (AP)—Top American diplomats and military men, charged with shaping U.S. defense policy in Western Europe, say they have not seen the controversial Gaither Report on U.S. defense capabilities.

Sources close to Air Force Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO commander in Europe and W. Randolph Burgess, ambassador to NATO, say even they have not seen the report.

Leaks about the report, still under secrecy wraps in Washington, say it warns that the United States is in danger of falling behind the Soviet Union in military strength by 1963. Decisions must be taken this year if the country is to have supremacy in the arms race, the report is said to warn.

Original Chairman
It derives its name from H. Rowan Gaither Jr., San Francisco lawyer who was the original chairman of the drafting committee.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, commenting on it, said on Dec. 28 that the United States was not "at this time" in a position of military weakness.

American military men in key posts are known to be eager for a look at the report. One senior officer got a full from an aide who managed a look while in the Pentagon. Others have also received bits through a sort of professional grapevine.

During the NATO summit talks in Paris last month sources close to Secretary of State Dulles said even Dulles at that time had made only a cursory study of the document.

Sources at the American Embassy in Paris say it is doubtful that the ambassador to France, Amory Houghton, who is now vacationing in the United States, has had a look at the report.

Norstad has indicated that a first-step program would spot something like 210 intermediate-range missiles over Europe in a dozen units. The Gaither report is understood by competent sources here to recommend about three times that number, perhaps set up over a period of years.

Highway Crews Fight Snow Storm

OVER AN inch of snow fell on the Stroudsburg yesterday and flurries continued well into the night.

Joseph C. Ciampi, Monroe County maintenance superintendent for the State Highways Dept., said last night his department had 34 trucks, 15 wagons, four loaders, one shovel and 93 men on the roads.

Minor Accidents
Several minor traffic accidents were attributed to poor visibility and the slippery condition of the highways.

Two inches of snow fell in the Mount Pocono region.

But the Weather Bureau said the threat of heavy snowfall for the Susquehanna Basin had ended and moderate to heavy fall would be confined to the immediate coastal areas.

Philadelphia reported 2 inches of snow, Allentown one, Blauvelt three, Bradford and Erie four.

A heavy snowfall, whipped by mounting winds, blanketed the eastern seaboard last night as far south as Virginia. Even Florida braced for its second freeze of the winter.

Gale warnings, with predictions of 60 m.p.h. winds, were raised from Maine to Rhode Island and at other points along the coast.

The New England states expected a snowfall of up to a foot, and even deeper on eastern mountain slopes. In Virginia the forecast was for 10 inches in coastal areas.

Plane Crashes
Slippery highways caused many accidents. At Ashland, Mass., Mrs. Florence Puntini's car skidded out of control, plunged into the icy Sudbury River and sank. Her son scrambled to safety. Mrs. Puntini drowned.

An Air Force F-86 Sabrejet crashed in woods during a blinding snow flurry, but the pilot bailed out safely.

In Florida, the Weather Bureau forecast below-freezing temperatures in the northern and central parts of the state. Citrus growers and other Florida farmers still were trying to recover from the effects of a killing freeze in December.

Wetzel Murder Case Jury Selected From 85 Candidates After Full Day Of Questioning

ROCKINGHAM, N.C., Jan. 7 (AP)—A jury of ten men and two women, selected after day-long questioning of 85 prospective jurors, was seated in Richmond Superior Court here today to hear murder charges against Frank Edward Wetzel, 37.

Wetzel is charged with first degree murder in the killing of Highway Patrolman W. L. Reece.

Two alternates were quickly chosen after the regular jury was adjourned until tomorrow when the state will begin presenting its evidence.

Dismissals
More than half the prospective jurors were dismissed when they said they did not believe in capital punishment.

Congress Opens Space Age Session

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—Congress embarked on its first space age session Tuesday in an atmosphere of grave concern over Russia's scientific strides.

That defense matters would get top billing was pointed up a few hours after the session opened.

President Eisenhower forwarded to the Senate and House an emergency request for $1,260,000,000 in new funds to speed missile development and expand air defenses.

The supplemental money request, for the current fiscal year that ends June 30, also called for transfer to the missile program and related projects of an additional 110 million dollars already appropriated.

Pulsing through actions, predictions and prayers at the opening of the new session was a grim realization of a need to meet a massive military threat posed by Russian advances with missiles and space satellites.

Again Threat
Against that threat, Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California predicted that President Eisenhower will offer to Congress and the people a constructive series of suggestions strong enough to answer the Soviet challenge.

Eisenhower will lay down the defense part of his program in a State of the Union message to be delivered to a joint Senate-House session Thursday. Details of his domestic program will be held back for a message next Monday proposing a balanced budget of around 74 billion dollars for the fiscal year starting next July 1, and a boost in defense spending or around two billions.

On the surface, members of Senate and House were as jovial and jaunty as usual for start of a new session. They chuckled, grabbed hands, and chattered in noisy staccato. Underneath, they were pretty somber-minded.

House Speaker Rayburn of Texas said today he will be a long, "very heavy session and one of considerable controversy." Almost at the same moment, Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas was solemnly advising a conference of all Senate Democrats that the "peril of the hour is obvious."

Albania Forces Down U. S. Plane

ROME, Jan. 7 (AP)—Red Albania, the Soviet satellite on the Mediterranean, reported tonight its jet fighters have forced down an American jet trainer and the pilot is being held captive.

The plane presumably is a T33 that has been missing since Maj. Howard J. B. Curran took it off at Chateauroux, France, Dec. 23 for a flight to Naples. He was last reported over north Italy that day and then vanished.

Authorities at U. S. air headquarters in Wiesbaden, Germany, and Washington said they had no confirmation of Albania seizing any American plane.

Missing
In Washington, the Air Force said Maj. Howard J. Curran has been missing since Dec. 23.

He is the brother of Charles C. Curran of Tacoma, Wash. His wife is dead, but he has three children.

A British cargo plane was forced down by Albania's Soviet-style jets last week and released with its crew on Saturday.

An Albanian-language broadcast from Tirana, the Red capital, told of the T33 seizure.

The pilot was identified by a Rome radio monitor as Howard Keros. This was tentatively accepted by Wiesbaden authorities as a reference to Maj. Curran.

The Albanian version as heard in Yugoslavia said the T33 had intruded on Albanian territory from the south.

Federal Payment
It offers federal payments to farmers who retire allotted acres from production of corn, cotton, wheat, rice and tobacco — major surplus crops. This part is scheduled to end with 1959 but Benson proposed chopping it off a year earlier.

He called for increased emphasis on the longer-range reserve part of the soil bank. This authorizes payments to farmers who retire land, including full farms, for long periods of time and plant the land to such long-range conservation uses as grass and trees.

Benson said the administration plans to send its farm recommendations to Congress in a special message possibly Jan. 15 or 16. These are expected to call for greater freedom for farmers in planning their production, and wider discretion for the department in setting price supports.

Benson, who has been under sharp attack from time to time, told reporters he thinks Congress will give much more favorable consideration to administration farm proposals than it did in 1957.

Soviet Union Officials Unable To Account For Information On Man-Carrying Rocket

MOSCOW, Jan. 7 (AP)—Soviet officials in a position to know said tonight they have no information about a Russian rocket carrying a man into space.

A spokesman for the Soviet Academy of Sciences and the Committee for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries made this response to questions about yesterday's unofficial report that a Soviet rocket shot 186 miles up shortly after Jan. 1 and that the man aboard parachuted successfully.

A Soviet Foreign Office spokesman, questioned along similar lines by Western correspondents, said he was unable to say anything about the accounts published abroad. Asked if the Soviet government would have an announcement on the subject, the spokesman said so far as he knew there was no communique in sight.

Radio Broadcast
A Moscow radio broadcast

heard in London quoted the official Soviet news agency Tass as saying it knew nothing of a manned rocket flight. It quoted the agency's deputy director as saying it was "completely incomprehensible" to him how Western news agencies had obtained such a report. In Washington, the White House said it is not known there if the story is true or not.

Western correspondents in Moscow reported continuing difficulties with Soviet censors. Associated Press Bureau Chief Harold K. Mills advised one AP story had been held up by censors and referred to another which had not been received in New York.

A Moscow radio broadcast monitored in the West Sunday said, "There is no actual flight by a man in a cosmic ship today." The home service broadcast was a fictional account of the launching of a manned satellite into orbit and a radio conversation between the passenger and the ground station.

No Barrier
Laymen observing Soviet progress in rocketry said there appeared no technical barrier to manned flights into the upper air in an experimental rocket. They recalled that Soviet experts successfully solved the problems of sending living organisms aloft by shooting rockets with dogs as passengers to heights well above 186 miles without apparent harm.

Soviet scientists have said previously that all the problems of bringing a man back to earth after a satellite flight have not been solved as yet. But on the basis of claims of safe flights by dogs the scientists appear to be saying they have solved these problems for rocket flights. The dogs, encased in oxygen-equipped containers, were dropped back to earth on parachutes from heights of 100 to 200 miles.

Government Plans Change In Soil Bank

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said today the administration proposes to do away with the shorter-range part of the soil bank at the end of this year.

Benson made the announcement at a news conference in which he also said prospects for 1958 crops are very favorable and declared the Agriculture Department budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1 will be no larger than the current one of nearly 5 1/2 billion dollars.

The part of the soil bank he said the administration will recommend ending is called the annual acreage reserve. This takes about a half billion dollars a year.

Federal Payment
It offers federal payments to farmers who retire allotted acres from production of corn, cotton, wheat, rice and tobacco — major surplus crops. This part is scheduled to end with 1959 but Benson proposed chopping it off a year earlier.

He called for increased emphasis on the longer-range reserve part of the soil bank. This authorizes payments to farmers who retire land, including full farms, for long periods of time and plant the land to such long-range conservation uses as grass and trees.

Congressmen Face Study Of Tranquilizers In Historic Session Of Legislature

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—New era matters from missiles to tranquilizers will be the target of congressional inquiries this year.

But more ordinary questions like taxes and the cost of a home mortgage aren't going to be overlooked either.

A survey of House and Senate committees today showed dozens of investigations are planned for the new session of Congress.

Some of the inquiries may never come about. But others are sure to take their place as circumstances demand. The force of politics, seldom absent, will become more pronounced as the legislators get closer to the November elections.

Already on the road is the Senate Preparedness subcommittee's investigation into America's missile progress and how it stacks up against Russia's.

Great Debate
The great debate brought on by Russia's Sputniks is a propellant too for two other inquiries starting this week. The House Defense Appropriations subcommittee is taking an especially searching look at President Eisenhower's billion-dollar request for more defense money this year. The House Armed Services Committee is launching what Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) promises will be extensive closed-door hearings on all aspects of defense.

Surgery On Ray's Ear
NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Singer Johnny Ray, partially deaf since childhood, today underwent a major ear operation in the hope of having his hearing restored. Its effectiveness will not be known for three days.

A Mt. Sinai Hospital spokesman said such operations have about an 80 per cent chance of success. They involve making a new opening in the ear to replace a non-functioning natural channel.

Air Defenses High On Spending List

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—Plans to channel an extra $1,370,000,000 into missiles and air defenses, starting immediately, were presented to Congress today by President Eisenhower.

The chief executive asked for $1,260,000,000 in new money. About 119 million of it is to be spent before June 30, pushing defense expenditures into the neighborhood of $38,900,000,000 for this fiscal year.

Eisenhower also asked Congress to approve the transfer of 110 million dollars, in Defense Department funds already appropriated, to the missile and related programs as an additional shot-in-the-arm.

Space Agency
He proposed to use 10 million of transfer funds to start the wheels turning in the government's newly created space agency, which will deal with satellites, anti-missile missiles and space vehicles.

National security in the missile age was the principal subject discussed when the Senate's Democrats and Republicans caucused separately during the day.

Addressing the Democratic senator, Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said "the peril of the hour is obvious."

"There is something more important than any ultimate weapon," he declared. "That is the ultimate position—the point of total control over earth that lies somewhere out in space."

"Whoever gains that ultimate position gains total control over the earth, for the purposes of tyranny or the service of freedom."

Sen. Saltonstall of Massachusetts said the GOP caucus it was necessary "to keep our feet on the ground and our heads clear" to meet "the grave responsibilities of providing for our national security."

"I have every confidence in the ability and resources of our people and I know that our cause ultimately will prevail," Saltonstall said.

Here is what the administration intends to do with the supplemental appropriation of $1,260,000,000 requested today.

Spend 683 million of it for the development and procurement of long-range ballistic missiles, including construction of launching sites on land and aboard submarines.

Invest 329 million in a detection system for defense against enemy ballistic missiles. This includes work on anti-missile missiles.

Put 219 million into accelerating and expanding the construction of dispersal and alert facilities for the Strategic Air Command, the nation's main aerial striking force.

Spend 29 million to extend the Semi-Automatic Ground Environment System for air defense.

Bridge Falls Under Bus

TOWANDA, Jan. 7 (AP)—The floor of a bridge spanning the swirling Susquehanna River collapsed today, plunging a bus with 41 school children and a tractor-trailer 25 feet to the edge of the stream.

Only one child was hurt to any extent. Yvonne Bride, 10, suffered cuts on the face.

The bus, enroute to the Wysox elementary school, Bradford County, began crossing the bridge at Wysox. At the far end a big Highway Department tractor-trailer was parked, loaded with new flooring for the bridge.

Rodney Williams, driver of the truck, stepped up on his running board to allow the bus to pass. As the two vehicles were abreast the flooring collapsed, the bus and tractor-trailer plunging to the river's edge.

The bus dropped to the river's edge nose first. Steel girders from the partly collapsed bridge prevented it from rolling into deep water.

'Fair Month' Tops In Pocono Mountains

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the eighth in a series of 12 "Year End" stories to appear in The Daily Record. This series deals with the top local news stories of 1957 on the month by month basis.

By Leonard Randolph
AUGUST WAS "fair month." We had the Blue Valley Farm Show, Greene-Dreher-Sterling Fair and the West End Fair all in a row.

County Commissioners formally signed a contract with J. L. Jacobs Co., Chicago, for completion of the tax equalization program.

A large segment of Stroudsburg's downtown real estate was bought by E. H. Wyckoff et al.

The State Department of Health announced that majority of Monroe County children had been given the first and second shots against polio. It was one of the finest records in the State.

Summer Guest
The month was notable for its quiet stories about human beings. One of the finest was the irregular series of articles Bobby Westbrook, Daily Record special editor, wrote and ran describing the arrival and visit of India's Trevidi Rama Ishvarrai Rama, as she quickly became known throughout the county. She was the Summer guest of the Woman's Club. She had been studying in London. This was her first visit to America. Her charm was genuine and highly effective. And she was eager to know people or learn about this part of our nation.

As a delegate from India—an often-misunderstood new nation in our modern world—she was worth at least a dozen Krishna Menons. As a woman, she possessed a fine sense of humor and the kind of beauty that comes from the inside of the human soul where quiet and calmness have their own kingdom.

The Fred Waring TV show continued to show off Shawnee and The Poconos to best advantage. National Drug Co., Swiftwater, started manufacturing Asian flu vaccine under government contract. It was one of the first in the nation to do so.

The weather gave us some hard lumps during the month. We had what seemed to be the coldest Aug. 6 in history (thereabouts, at least) when the mercury shot down to 36 degrees above zero. The only consolation we could find in the whole thing on Aug. 6 was that it was ABOVE zero. A prolonged drought hit the county. Farm agents hedged somewhat early in the month because they couldn't make predictions (only weatherman can do that.) But later on they estimated that the drought had reached serious proportions. Damage to local crops were relatively high.

A. B. Wyckoff Inc. purchased the site of the old Wallace store building in Stroudsburg. It now houses J. C. Penney Co. Woolworth's and — back on Sixth St. — Matt Kline's electrical shop. Cost: $240,000. Wyckoff's said there were no immediate plans for the building.

A contract for $74,950 was signed by Monroe County and Jacobs Co. It called for completion of the county's reassessment project which will lead to tax equalization. Commissioners had also agreed to pay $26,000 which Jacobs Co. had said was due for work done previously. The company had filed suit in local courts demanding payment. With the new agreement, Jacobs agreed to drop the suit. Case was dismissed.

Phenomenal Memory
A nine-year-old boy with a phenomenal memory (about rocks, stars, meteors, just about anything you could name) was C. J. Austin of Normal St., East Stroudsburg. C. J. collected fossils. He dropped in at the Record office with his older brother, Johnny, convinced that he could rival most of those men with encyclopedic memories on TV. C. J. also has a dog with a Dachshund-type name: "Neopolatonashadoodle-sacfermacagessell." We thought he was probably the only creature hereabouts who could have the last laugh when somebody told him: "Don't call us. We'll call you."

In Juniata Lake, Polk Township, Wilmer Borger, 33, went for a late-night swim with a group of friends. Borger swam out, began to return to the lake shore. Halfway to land he disappeared beneath the surface. No one worried for a time. Borger was an expert swimmer. But he never came back. His body was discovered later from the lake.

Trustees at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College looked over outlines for a proposed new building program. It is to include a new science building, administration building, library and women's dormitory. Estimated cost: $1,800,000.

A freak windstorm suddenly hit the area during the first week in the month. Daily Record news editor Jim Riley, doubling in brass as reporter and photographer, gave us an excellent on-the-spot account of the destruction caused at the scene of the township firemen's carnival. In most respects, it was the most unusual "spot news" story of the year. The baby "twister" hit an area of only a few hundred yards. Then it blew itself out and disappeared just like the moving finger in Mr. Khayam's "Rubaiyat."

Musical Production
New legislation out in Harrisburg made Monroe County eligible for more roadside rests. All of which prompted one local wag to crack: "After they get finished riding over some of these roads, they'll need one." Up at Camp Tamiment, Ben Josephson's theatrical staff did itself proud with a production of a new musical version of "The Emperor's New Clothes."

America's newest Blond (Jayne Mansfield) dropped in for a hurry-up visit to her old home town, Pen Argyl, as hundreds peered. Camp Weygadt (forget about Jayne, kids, this is the Boy Scouts' item) opened its new dining hall with appropriate ceremony.

Back in the West End area, Leo Borger, 16, married and the father of an infant son, was tragically killed in a hunting accident. The shot came from the gun of his older brother. They were hunting groundhogs on Aug. 12 near the family home.

State police charged that another tragic happening was not accidental. This one occurred on Aug. 25 near Bartonsville. Russell Frantz, 14, was seriously injured when shotgun pellets from his father's gun hit his right leg. Russell was taken to General Hospital where surgery was performed on the leg. Police charged Calvin Frantz, 50, with assault with intent to kill. He was jailed and held for grand jury.

For the second time in recent months, a Lackawanna freight was derailed. This time it happened at Manunka Chunk. A total of 11 cars on the west-bound train were derailed.

On the local education scene, Stroud Union School Board stirred up some lively discussion. The board and school administrators announced a new "closed session" lunch hour. That meant students would not be allowed off school grounds during the noon-time period. County Superintendent John C. Litts announced that school enrollment in districts under his supervision were up nearly 10 per cent over 1956-57.

the month. Incodel had appeared, in the past, to favor Wall-pack Bend as a site for a proposed Delaware dam. During August, Incodel officials threw their weight behind Tocks Island (above Shawnee) as a site for the dam — if it proved feasible.

A "Fireman of the Year" competition was announced by The Daily Record. Nominations were to be made by each volunteer company in the County. Selection of the winner was to be made by an impartial jury. Stroudsburg Water company officials took a look at the Flagler Run reservoir; found out that it was dropping sharply. Investigation showed a 10-inch main had broken. About one million gallons of water had been lost.

Barbara Anton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller, Pocono Pines, continued to make a name for herself in the legitimate theatre. After appearing successfully as "Cherie" in a Jersey Shore area production of "Bus Stop," Miss Anton tackled the difficult role of Curly's wife in a touring production of John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men."

New Class Planned For Parents

A NEW CLASS for prospective parents is now being formed under direction of the Visiting Nurse Assn. of Monroe County.

The series includes instruction in all phases of education for child-bearing. It is approved by the Monroe County Medical Society. VNA is a Community Chest organization.

First lesson in the series will start Wednesday, Jan. 15 at 7:45 p. m. It continues on Monday and Wednesday nights through six full lessons. All classes are held in the VNA office at 205 E. Brown St., across the street from the General Hospital.

Mrs. Edna Monti, R. N., is the instructor. Mrs. Monti has had specialized training for teaching these courses. Topics covered in the course will include the following:

Course Topics
Before the Baby Comes; "Nutritional, Garment and Other Needs in Preparing for the Baby," and a thorough tour of the maternity department at the hospital.

Additional lessons in exercises for childbirth are available through individual arrangement with the family doctor and the instructor. The classes are specifically designed with both parents in mind. Having a child is a matter of basic interest and concern to both the new mother and the new father. There are questions both feel they need to ask and which need to be answered. VNA officials emphasize, "The classes are intended to help the two parents, working together, to understand what they can do to help each other and the child."

Enrollment in previous classes has included 46 mothers and 11 fathers. Comments from both mothers and fathers have been unanimously favorable.

Persons wishing to register for the prospective parents course should contact their family doctor or the VNA office through telephoning Stroudsburg 1293. If parents would prefer, they may mail one of the pink coupons now available in many stores to the VNA office in care of General Hospital.

Registration should be made before January 15.

Patterson-Kelley Employee Granted Patent Entitled 'Heat Exchange Mixing Mill'

JOHN J. FISCHER, Stokes Mill Road, East Stroudsburg, was the recipient recently of U. S. patent 2,816,371, entitled "Heat Exchange Mixing Mill."

Fischer is employed by Patterson-Kelley Co., East Stroudsburg, in the Chemical and Processing Department. This invention pertains to a novel and improved mixing mill for use in industries in which it is necessary to agitate and, at the same time, dry, heat or cool powdered or granular materials and prevent caking or lumping thereof. For example, if the mill is to operate upon damp or wet substances, hot air or the like is introduced into it for the purpose of drying its contents.

Fischer's improved apparatus may be in the form of a tumbling mill which rotates at a relatively slow speed and continuously tumbles or mixes the material that has been placed in it. It includes a power driven shaft upon which a number of radially extending tubes are mounted.

This shaft rotates at a relatively high speed and is mounted so that the tubes thereon impinge against the top layer of the material in such a manner and with such rapidity as to pick up the material and thoroughly agitate it so that it does not become lumped or caked.

Fischer's apparatus also has a means for introducing hot or cold air or gas, or any other suitable treating medium, and for discharging the same through the agitator tubes and into the contents of the mixing mill. This results in the heating, cooling or drying of the material as may be required.

According to Fischer, the heat exchanger mixing mill of his invention is of simple and rugged construction and may easily be cleaned. It may be run on a continuous or batch basis. As an additional advantageous feature, the fact that the agitator shaft is not buried within the load makes it possible to achieve a greatly improved blending or mixing operation with only a very slight increase in power consumption above that needed to drive a conventional tumbling mill.

This patent has been assigned to Patterson-Kelley Company, Inc.

Keep Assessments Equal

Monroe County Board of Commissioners is to be commended for its foresightedness in considering passage of a resolution requiring property owners to obtain building permits for new construction.

Purpose of the move is to assure successful operation of the county's new tax equalization system on a continuing basis. Issuance of building permits, the commissioners feel, is one of the few feasible methods for keeping track of changes in property values.

Chief alternative would be reliance on whatever property improvements are reported by local assessors. But this method would run counter to the state tax equalization law, which takes property evaluation out of the hands of the local assessors.

The county commissioners are correct in moving to establish a continuous check on all construction undertaken by property owners.

Many thousands of taxpayers' dollars are being spent in setting up the reassessment program throughout the county, and it would be folly to let it become out of date for lack of controls. Day-to-day checks, as provided by required building permits, would keep the assessment records up to the minute and reasonably accurate.

The tax equalization system, as mandated by state law, is intended to place assessments on a fair and equal basis in direct relation to true market values. By requiring that property owners obtain building permits before starting new construction, the county would be guaranteeing taxpayers fair and equal assessments.

Southerners In Control

When the 85th Congress reconvened yesterday, Texans were again running the show. Lyndon Johnson is Senate majority leader and Sam Rayburn is speaker of the House.

Next in national influence, as exerted through important posts in Congress, is Arkansas.

Senator Fullbright is chairman of the Banking Committee. Senator McClellan is chairman of the Government Operations Committee and of the Special Labor Rackets Investigating Committee.

Representative Mills advances to chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee as a result of the death of Cooper of Tennessee. Representative Harris is chairman of the Commerce Committee.

It all emphasizes again how the South controls when the Democrats are in the majority. Of 15 standing Senate committees, eight major ones are controlled by southerners (excluding men from the border states and the south-west). In the House southerners chairman nine of the 19 standing committees.

The reason for southern control is simple, as the Milwaukee Journal points out. The seniority system makes years of service the major qualification for committee chairmanship. The southern states generally return the same Democrats to office year after year.

The situation has an important effect in an area of current national concern. It is a major reason why many influential southerners have discouraged violent reactions on the school integration issue, why southern politicians have been remarkably moderate on the subject, why the hotbed talk of establishing a third party for 1960 is getting nowhere.

The wise southerner knows that as things are now, with his representatives firmly at the congressional helm, the South exercises a national power far beyond its geographic, political or economic importance.

George Sokolsky Says...

Earl Browder And America

Earl Browder was for so many years the leader of the Communist Party of America and that party was so influential in the United States that his name was a household word. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

The very first paragraph of the introduction sets the case: "The theories of Karl Marx provide the basic concepts and ideas for the intellectual life of about one-third of the world's population. Among another one-third they exert a strong influence. Only in America has the direct influence of Marxism declined since the war."

In some respects, one might ask, has not the direct influence of Karl Marx declined more rapidly in Soviet Russia than in any other part of the world? Surely, there is no room in Marx's philosophy for the imperialism of Soviet Russia, a system adapted from the Prussian Treitschke who conceived the system of satellites for the emerging German Empire of the Kaisers.

Also, Marx never favored the restoration of autocracy in Russia, the autocracy of such a one as Ivan the Terrible, as practiced first by Stalin and now by Khrushchev. Also, it might be suggested for discussion whether Marx could ever have believed in the total subordination of the individual to the state, even temporarily, a system so characteristic of Leninism or of the condition of permanent war which Stalin and his successors developed as their means of statecraft.

Browder's freedom from Communist Party discipline has undoubtedly opened his mind to the errors of a system of which he was so long a servant. However, it must be remembered that as the proponent of American exceptionalism, he was the author of nationalistic Communism which Tito adopted and is now abandoning.

Long before the Communists kicked Browder out of their party, his insistence upon American exceptionalism indicated a break with the Kremlin hierarchy. Only World War II delayed his expulsion for heresy.

Lenin was undoubtedly assisted by the Bolshevik success in Soviet Russia, but even more by the failure of the industrial workers of Western Europe and America to respond to his success by calling general strikes and resorting to revolutionary acts in a joyous response to the proletarian revolution in Russia. I recall that at the moment of the Russian Revolution, the Smolny was full of talk of what was going to happen throughout the world, but nothing happened.

Big Bill Haywood, of whom the Bolsheviks depended in the United States, was in prison here. Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg were unable to follow a Bolshevik revolution in Germany and before long the split between the German and Russian parties became notorious.

Robert S. Allen Reports...

Union Leaders Surprised

Washington, Jan. 7.—Union chiefs are in for smarting surprises when the Administration unveils its labor program for this session of Congress.

Foremost among these jobs is a proposal to create a new post of Commissioner of Labor Reports, with broad powers to compel unions to submit detailed financial accounts, to investigate their accuracy, and to make them public.

This measure stems directly from the numerous scandals uncovered by the Senate Labor Rackets Investigating Committee.

Other far-reaching recommendations include significant amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act, authorizing individual union members to personally sue crooked labor officials, and making it a felony for both employers and unionists to engage in secret compacts.

President Eisenhower will present a general outline of this important labor program in his State of the Union message. Later, he will send Congress full details in a special message.

Meanwhile, Labor Secretary James Mitchell is giving a private preview of the legislation to congressional leaders.

In addition, he is providing them with a copy of a one-page memorandum he prepared for the President on the highlights of this labor program. That was formulated by Mitchell, and approved by the President after a cabinet discussion last month.

In a letter to Republican leaders, the Labor Secretary stresses that these legislative proposals are for the purpose of "protecting the rights of individual workers and their union funds. They range from controls over union funds and activities, including boycotts and organizational picketing, to the elimination of conflict-of-interest deals between unions and employers."

Under the latter, a union's tax-exempt status could be suspended, and it also "could be deprived of the vital services of the National Labor Relations Board, or other similar statutory boards."

This office would be a part of the Labor Department, and would have both investigative and enforcement powers.

Mitchell's memorandum is titled: "Highlights of the President's Legislative Proposals in the Labor-Management Area to Curb Abuses and Protect the Individual Worker." As circulated among congressional leaders the revealing paper is as follows:

"Commissioner of Labor Reports: Establish under the Secretary of Labor a new post of Commissioner of Labor Reports, who on behalf of the Secretary would have far-reaching powers of investigation and subpoena to inquire into the propriety and accuracy of the reports required by statute as listed below. The Commissioner would be appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate.

"All unions, including regional and state conferences, and, where appropriate, employers would be required to file, and the Commissioner would receive and make available to the public full and detailed reports, covering:

(1) The operations of all health, welfare and pension funds—to protect the equity of working people.

(2) The handling of all union funds and funds of affiliated organizations—to insure the proper use of such funds by union officials.

(3) Funds exchanged between employers and union officials—to reveal conflict-of-interest dealings.

(4) Union organization and structure—to help insure the free democratic operations of unions and secret ballot election for union officers.

"In the event of non-compliance by a union, the Secretary of Labor Reports, after the requirements of due process have been fulfilled, revoke the union's tax exempt status and deprive it of the vital services of the National Labor Relations Board or similar statutory boards.

"Other Legislative Proposals: (1) Permit union members to sue dishonest labor officials in federal or state courts.

(2) Tighten the secondary boycott provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act to protect all employers and individual employees from unfair coercion, and also to deal with the hot cargo situation.

(3) Forbid blackmail picketing to force workers to join or employers to accept a union which they unquestionably do not want.

(4) Make it a felony under federal law for union officials or employers to make or receive payments to influence the action of one another.

(5) Make embezzlement of general union funds as well as health, welfare and pension funds a federal crime.

(6) Eliminate 'no man's land' by authorizing the state to act where the NLRB declines jurisdiction.

Bloodmobile To Visit Signal Depot

by Jim Riley

Tobyhanna Signal Depot will add to its already brilliant blood giving record next Tuesday and Wednesday.

The increase to the record will take place during the semi-annual two-day visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile at the Signal Depot.

The Signal Depot has carried Monroe County over the top in blood donations at the Wilkes-Barre Center in recent years.

During the most recent visit to the Depot a total of 417 pints of blood were donated. Since 1953 the total is 2,496 pints of life-giving blood.

A plaque, featuring the names of "gallon donors" will be presented to the Depot by LeRoy Mikels, regional blood director.

I don't know what Monroe County would do without The Depot as far as blood drives are concerned. The guys and gals up Tobyhanna way certainly carry the ball. Other organizations please copy.

Many of the donors aren't even residents of Monroe County.

Dick Forster, former teacher and coach at East Stroudsburg High School, is now a patient at the Presbyterian Hospital in Philadelphia.

The Presbyterian Hospital is located on N. 39th St. Dick is now a teacher and coach at Lansford High.

Sam Strunk, White Heron Lake, almost walked on a mother bear and three cubs in a Pike County swamp.

The unusual feat occurred last Friday when Sam was hunting Snow Shoo rabbits. Everybody reportedly cleared the spot in short order.

John County, Stroudsburg, recently attended a meeting of the Pennsylvania Employment Security office in Tamaqua.

John is a district labor market analyst.

Dr. M. J. Leitner, 120 S. Green St., East Stroudsburg, will present a plastic heart to East Stroudsburg State Teachers College tomorrow at 10 a.m.

This is the final presentation of a plastic model. They have all been donated by the Monroe County Heart Committee.

Rita Foley, Pocono Summit, was recently rewarded for a money saving suggestion accepted by Tobyhanna Signal Depot.

Rita was one of 17 so honored.

Bob Clark, Daily Record sports editor, is finding it pretty tough getting around these days.

The old leg is currently hampered by a case of "the miseries."

Showman-wit Abe Burrows reports E. J. Kahn, Jr., had a Russian grandmother who never had uttered one word of English until — minutes before she breathed her last at the age of 87 — she noticed her grandson staring forlornly at her bedside her death bed, and asked very clearly, "Why aren't you in school?"

Burrows says he won a reputation as a wit by simply sitting at a table with a bunch of Hollywood characters and admitting he came from Brooklyn. "All you have to do is mention the word 'Brooklyn' in movie circles," Abe explains, "and everybody laughs himself sick. Some people at the next table say me, consulting my friends, and the word spread that I was a real card — a reputation I've been trying to live up to ever since!"

English Actor To Appear At ESSTC

EAST STROUDSBURG State Teachers College will present Hedley Hepworth, a noted English actor, as its convocation at 10 a. m. tomorrow in the college auditorium. The public is invited.

Hepworth is of British birth and generally considered England's most celebrated "Actor-of-the-Platform".

The artist tours extensively to obtain authentic background for the famous characters he portrays. During World War II, Hepworth served in the special branch of the British Secret Service portraying a British stevedore at ports and stevedore hangouts to spot sailors and workers that were talking "out of turn". He was never detected in this role and performed yeoman service for his native country.

Impersonations

Sometimes called a "One Man Show", Hedley Hepworth specializes in portraying and impersonating the immortal characters of Charles Dickens, Shakespeare, James Hilton, and Robert Louis Stevenson.

He also does character impersonations which are taken from the works of Alfred Noyes, Edgar Allan Poe, George Eliot, Henry Newbolt, John Drinkwater, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Robert Southey, Leigh Hunt, Victor Hugo, and Kipling. The artist-actor has the peculiar ability of bringing to life the character roles of great books and plays, providing an educational, entertaining, and humorous performance.

ating a bus which struck the car in which the youths were riding. He was found guilty by a Monroe County court jury.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

If the members of the AAUW didn't rush home Monday night and pay their bills real quick, it wasn't the fault of the speaker, who treated credit as a moral as well as a business necessity.

There was a fascinating discussion of the changing economic pattern. In the days of our fathers—maybe we'd better make that grandfathers for the sake of the younger generation—people saved for what they wanted before they bought it.

For instance, a couple would start housekeeping with the furniture they had saved for and the contents of a well-filled hope chest. Today, newlyweds go in debt for the week before the wedding for the furniture, appliances and even the dishes they figure they need, all bought on the installment plan.

There were two schools of thought on whether that is or is not a better way. Credit records show that most such household goods are paid for within the year, though of course by that time they've probably bought more.

One school claimed that there's nothing like installment payments coming due to settle a young person down to serious and steady work. The other school pointed out that the load of payments may make them sacrifice initiative to security, trail-blazing for the narrow rut.

There was another novel suggestion: maybe the reason there's so little encouragement in saving for a specific item is because by the time you have the original price saved up it costs twice as much as when you started.

And another fact to ponder on: credit records reveal that the one—and perhaps the only—thing that even a "poor credit risk" will resist to keep from having repossessed is his television set. Today it seems you can live without furniture, car or washing machine, useful as they may be, but not television which is pure pleasure.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard L. Miller Jr. (Lawrence Studio)

Charlotte Ehrgood Bride Of Bernard L. Miller Jr.

Barrett—Christmas colors, holly and pine dominated in the wedding of Miss Charlotte May Ehrgood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo L. Ehrgood, of Cresco, to Bernard L. Miller Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Miller, of Stroudsburg RD 2, held on December 15 at 2 p.m., at the Mountainhome Methodist Church.

Rev. Harold MacMurray was assisted by Rev. P. N. Wohlsein in performing the ceremony. Bouquets of white snapdragons, carnations, pompons and gladioli were on the altar. Arrangements of white snapdragons and pompons were on the organ and piano, and white satin bows on the pews and a white runner formed the background for the wedding party all in red and white.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silk chiffon and Chantilly lace with a fitted bodice with a Sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves of the lace. Chiffon motifs accented the front of the bodice. The full skirt, worn over a large hoop, cascaded into a cathedral train. A shirred panel of chiffon fell free from the back of the neckline to the end of the train.

She carried a cascade bouquet of red carnations, gardenias and ivy.

Cathleen DePue, Mount Pocono, maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Mary Miller, East Stroudsburg, and Naomi Bridge, Stroudsburg, as well as the junior bridesmaids, Patsy Budge and Brenda Torzillo, Stroudsburg, wore identical gowns of red net and velvet.

The gowns were waltz length and featured long fitted crushed bodices, a collar of matching velvet forming a crumb catcher and shoulders was tied in a knot at the center back with wide streamers extending to the bottom of the bouffant skirts. They wore matching hats of coque feathers with circular face veils.

The maid of honor carried a colonial cascade of variegated red and white carnations, holly and pine. The bridesmaids carried cascades of white carnations, holly and pine and the junior bridesmaids white shasta pompons and pine.

The flower girl, Kay Lynn Miller, of Stroudsburg RD 2, wore a floor-length gown of white taffeta and net with a fitted bodice, roll collar and short overskirt of taffeta over the voluminous skirts of net. Small bows of taffeta accented the shoulders and overskirt. She carried a bouquet of red Credit In Modern Economy, Theme Of AAUW Meeting.

There seems to be a close correlation between paying your bills and knowing right from wrong, members of the American Assn. of University Women were told on Monday night by C. Ware Boynton of Lehigh, who spoke on "Your Credit and You".

He said that 90 per cent of the persons involved in criminal cases in Monroe County could also be found on the list of "poor credit risks" maintained by credit bureaus. These poor credit risks make up only seven per cent of the population, he said, but they are the reasons why credit bureaus have become an essential part of business life today.

"Credit," he said, "is more than just paying your bills. It is paying them when you say you will. Credit refers to keeping promises." Records show that 85 out of a 100 persons do just that; eight will pay if the terms are made clear, but are careless about the date; the remaining seven can't or won't, he said.

Credit bureaus have grown up with a two-fold purpose: to make credit more readily available to those who have good credit records, and to protect merchants against those who don't, he said. "You make your own record," he said, "the credit bureau merely makes factual reports".

In the discussion which followed, the changing economic pattern, dangers and advantages inherent in an expanding economy, and other phases of credit were discussed. Mr. Boynton, owner-manager of the Credit Bureau of Carbon Co. is past president of the state organization. He was introduced by Mrs. Sumner Bossler of the Monroe Co. Credit Bureau.

Mrs. David Mazer presided at the business meeting. Mrs. George S. Mitchell, a graduate of Wheaton College was introduced by Mrs. W. H. Caulfield, who announced the branch now has 94 members. Mrs. Arthur Ifft was presented as the mystery personality.

Three meetings of study groups, all open to the public were announced: The Fine Arts group will begin painting on canvas at the meeting on January 13 at the home of Mrs. Robert Hartman, with beginners encouraged to attend.

William L. Smyser, former member of the State Department will lead the discussion on "China—The Middle Kingdom" at the meeting of the International relations group on January 16 at 8 p.m. at Stroud Union High School with Mrs. Loise Mirandon as chairman.

The Social Studies Group will meet on January 10 at Arlington Heights School at 1:15.

Announcement was also made of the League of Women Voters coffee hour to be held this Thursday at 10 a.m. at the home of Dr. Charlotte Jordan and of an open meeting for later in the month.

The meeting began with dessert provided by Mrs. Sumner Bossler and her committee.

Stroud Club Program For Thurs. Night

The Stroud Community Club will meet Thursday night at 8 p.m. at the YMCA. Mrs. Michael Chaffier will sing, and the speaker will be a club member, Mrs. George Stabenow, who will tell of her family's trip to Europe.

Mrs. John Sibley is chairman of the hostess committee which includes Mrs. Ruth Zetzelmoeyer, Mrs. Marvin Burris, Mrs. James Cummings, Mrs. Paul Hart, Mrs. Jack Raymond, Mrs. George Stabenow and Mrs. Z. J. Ziechnicki.

Plans for the meeting were made at a board meeting held Monday at the home of Mrs. James Howard, president.

Shoestring Or Sack? Designers Offer Choice

By DOROTHY ROE AP Women's Editor NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Look like a shoestring instead of a sack.

That's the advice given women in a quandary over spring wardrobes by Roxanne, designer for the house of Samuel Winston, previewing her spring collection to 200 fashion editors of newspapers throughout the country.

Roxanne, noted for well-bred simplicity of design, introduces the shoestring silhouette as her interpretation of a chemise that can be worn without pain. She makes it straight and narrow, but shapes it here and there to conform to feminine curves.

This designer likes the waist-length bolero and narrow skirt for suits, but also shows a new semi-belted Norfolk jacket, bloused at the back.

What the collection lacks in elaboration it makes up for in beauty of fabrics, with textured silk tweeds favored for suits, smooth silk crepes for afternoon dresses and bright silk prints used in a group of nostalgic "charleston" dresses, with hip belts and pleated skirts in the manner of the flapper age.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Claude Possinger, Stroudsburg, RD 3, and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Solt, Kresgeville.

Robert Meredith Moore II Their first son, Robert Meredith was born to Rev. and Mrs. Edgar B. Moore of the Cana-densed Methodist Church, Canadensis on January 2 at the General Hospital. He weighed seven pounds eight ounces. They have a daughter, Cynthia Leigh, four.

Mrs. Moore is the former Grace Louise Sims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Frank Sims, Pemberton, N.J. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meredith Moore of Moorestown, N.J.

Susan Patricia Schnee Mr. and Mrs. John Schnee, 557 North Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, announce the birth of a daughter on January 1 at the General Hospital. She weighed seven pounds one ounce and has been named Susan Patricia. They have a son, Timothy, 3½.

Mrs. Schnee is the former Patricia Foltz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Foltz, Port Trevorton. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schnee, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Spending a Sunday afternoon and evening with the Lester Cohens, I came across a most interesting bit of philosophic reading called "A Persian Rosary" by Inza Ahmad Sohrab, advocating nineteen steps toward near-Godlike perfection. If one could only live up to these principles, what a fine world this would be! One phrase that particularly appealed to me is this: "There is no saint without a past. There is no sinner without a future." That's something well worth remembering—but too often we do not. I was interested in finding a truly excellent selection of classical records, on a table in our center aisle, priced at just 69c. This is an unheard of value really, featuring various symphonies and string orchestras in the music of Debussy, Vivaldi, Gershwin, Goldmark, Tchaikowski, Bach, Mozart, and many others. These are 33's, and are, I am told, exceptionally fine. Meeting Mrs. Eli Travis in our domestic department, I find that she's still interested in fabrics, despite being given three dress lengths of cloth for Christmas. Mrs. Travis is one of those chic ladies who always appears to have stepped from a handbox. She relates the cheering news that her daughter, Mrs. Edmunds, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident months ago is now taking her first steps minus a cast. While here from Baltimore on a recent visit, she shopped Wyckoff's in a wheel chair, and is, according to her mother, one of our most enthusiastic customers. One of the nicest remarks ever made about my boss came from a gentleman, whom I regard most highly for his intelligence. "Whenever I see that wonderful antique copper ware in your store," he told me, "I feel a most profound respect for Mr. Wyckoff. I don't imagine he sells enough of it to adequately repay him for the space it occupies—but I have the idea he's more interested in giving something of beauty to his customer than he is making a dollar. I think his promotion of all the arts is further proof of this, and I think too that his over-all contribution to this area can never be measured in dollars and cents." This I most heartily second, knowing in a very personal way that many families have acquired possessions, and an appreciation of beauty, through his efforts that they might never otherwise have had. All of which turns my thoughts once again to our 21st annual Wyckoff Art Show now in the process of being hung. As this column is being typed on Monday, there are 90 entries from artists both amateur and professional throughout Monroe and Northampton counties. One must be very careful where he steps these days, or he'll go right through a canvas snowdrift, or squash a peacefully grazing cow. Bob Hoffman, enterprising Sears advertising manager, apparently believes that there's always room for one more—even organizations in this already over-organized community. If the organization has a worthwhile goal, he is undoubtedly correct—and so we go along with him in his plan to organize the retail advertising folk of the Pocono Mountains. First meeting was held in our Wyckoff Tea Room Monday morning, with plans for a second luncheon-meeting at Town Tavern on Thursday, February 6th. If you are eligible for membership and interested, contact either Max Below at The Daily Record or Ed Somers at Station WYPO. See you!

Spending a Sunday afternoon and evening with the Lester Cohens, I came across a most interesting bit of philosophic reading called "A Persian Rosary" by Inza Ahmad Sohrab, advocating nineteen steps toward near-Godlike perfection. If one could only live up to these principles, what a fine world this would be! One phrase that particularly appealed to me is this: "There is no saint without a past. There is no sinner without a future." That's something well worth remembering—but too often we do not. I was interested in finding a truly excellent selection of classical records, on a table in our center aisle, priced at just 69c. This is an unheard of value really, featuring various symphonies and string orchestras in the music of Debussy, Vivaldi, Gershwin, Goldmark, Tchaikowski, Bach, Mozart, and many others. These are 33's, and are, I am told, exceptionally fine. Meeting Mrs. Eli Travis in our domestic department, I find that she's still interested in fabrics, despite being given three dress lengths of cloth for Christmas. Mrs. Travis is one of those chic ladies who always appears to have stepped from a handbox. She relates the cheering news that her daughter, Mrs. Edmunds, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident months ago is now taking her first steps minus a cast. While here from Baltimore on a recent visit, she shopped Wyckoff's in a wheel chair, and is, according to her mother, one of our most enthusiastic customers. One of the nicest remarks ever made about my boss came from a gentleman, whom I regard most highly for his intelligence. "Whenever I see that wonderful antique copper ware in your store," he told me, "I feel a most profound respect for Mr. Wyckoff. I don't imagine he sells enough of it to adequately repay him for the space it occupies—but I have the idea he's more interested in giving something of beauty to his customer than he is making a dollar. I think his promotion of all the arts is further proof of this, and I think too that his over-all contribution to this area can never be measured in dollars and cents." This I most heartily second, knowing in a very personal way that many families have acquired possessions, and an appreciation of beauty, through his efforts that they might never otherwise have had. All of which turns my thoughts once again to our 21st annual Wyckoff Art Show now in the process of being hung. As this column is being typed on Monday, there are 90 entries from artists both amateur and professional throughout Monroe and Northampton counties. One must be very careful where he steps these days, or he'll go right through a canvas snowdrift, or squash a peacefully grazing cow. Bob Hoffman, enterprising Sears advertising manager, apparently believes that there's always room for one more—even organizations in this already over-organized community. If the organization has a worthwhile goal, he is undoubtedly correct—and so we go along with him in his plan to organize the retail advertising folk of the Pocono Mountains. First meeting was held in our Wyckoff Tea Room Monday morning, with plans for a second luncheon-meeting at Town Tavern on Thursday, February 6th. If you are eligible for membership and interested, contact either Max Below at The Daily Record or Ed Somers at Station WYPO. See you!

Good Year Expected For New Homes

AP Newsfeatures
HOUSING EXPERTS look for a home construction spurt by mid-year and predict that 1958 home building as a whole will exceed last year's volume.

Predictions also are being made that home credit will be easier and more plentiful in 1958 than it was in 1957. What this might mean to the average American family buying a home this year was spelled out by Norman Strunk, executive vice president of the United States Savings and Loan League.

The league is comprised of 4,400 savings and loan associations and they finance between 35 and 40 per cent of all American home purchases annually. Here is what Strunk says easier money will mean in 1958 to the American home buying family.

1. It will mean an increase in activity in the FHA sector of the home mortgage market by home lenders who typically do most of the FHA-insured lending.

Longer Terms
"In the past," Strunk adds, "much of the FHA financing has been for new houses priced under $15,000. The construction of small houses thus will probably be stepped up in 1958."

2. Many home financing organizations will make loans with longer terms. The league official then said: "Institutions which made loans only up to 20 years during 1957 will be making more loans up to 25 years. Longer terms make monthly payments smaller, but they also make it more difficult for a borrower to build up an equity in his home."

3. As to interest rates, they probably have passed their peak. "Home mortgage rates," Strunk explained, "traditionally lag six months to a year behind changes in other rates, and so it may be late in 1958 before any perceptible drop in mortgage rates is apparent."

Strunk added: "As a result of the increasingly competitive nature of the housing market, a higher percentage of new homes are being sold and financed on either a 'built-to-order' basis, or, in the event of a project, from a single or a few model homes. At the same time, there are fewer houses built on a speculative basis."

Highly Competitive
"This shift in the 'timing' of building programs reflects the change from a housing shortage, when almost any house built could be sold, to the present intensely competitive buyer's market."

"In today's market, builders and lenders are reluctant to go very far on a limb unless buyers are in sight, which means that many housing starts are going to be delayed longer on into the building season than has usually been the case in earlier post-war years."

Securing home mortgage credit will not present some of the problems it did in 1957, Strunk said. "There will be more mortgage money available, possibly much more than most persons now anticipate."

He summed up the housing outlook in this way: "The potential market is there for a good building year, in terms of the number of prospective home buyers."

"Home credit will be available to finance more than a million starts in 1958, probably on terms more liberal than prevailed during 1957."

"Against this largely favorable background, the housing industry must carefully measure the type of new homes and the price ranges of new homes that will appeal to this market, and then build them."

New Uses For Old Doors

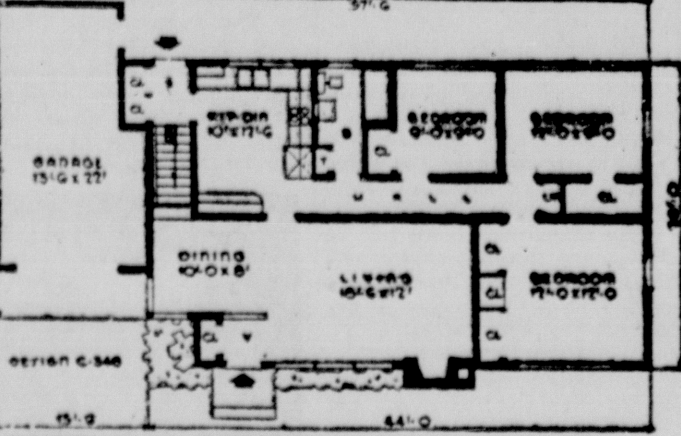

THOSE old-fashioned sliding doors which were common in Victorian houses are coming back—and new uses are being found for them.

While their original purpose was to add elegance to mansions, they are being employed now to have space in small dwellings. A nation-wide survey recently conducted among home owners and prospective home owners showed that more than 68 per cent of those who intend to build or remodel include sliding doors in their plans.

Linon Closets
Such doors are not only being used between rooms but also to close off clothes and linen closets and kitchen cupboards. Gliding back into the walls, sliding doors require no swinging space and thus solve architectural problems in those clearance areas.

A SMALL HOUSE PLANNING BUREAU DESIGN NO. C-348

DESIGN C-348. The sturdiness of the low roof, wide overhanging eaves and horizontal lines of this spacious home is further emphasized by the wide face brick chimney in front. The living room has an entrance vestibule with a coat closet, a picture window, fireplace and dining alcove with corner windows. This lovely alcove is in addition to the dining space available in the kitchen.

Other plan features of this house include three bedrooms, large linen and towel cabinets and generous closet space. The kitchen is very efficiently laid out. Also included are an attached garage and full basement.

Floor area is 1128 square feet, cubage is 21,432 cubic feet, not including the garage.

Proper Watering Of Plants Aid To Beautiful Property

EACH GARDENER will have to determine for himself how often and how much to water his house plants. Conditions vary too much in different homes to set up a schedule to suit all.

The rule is to water when a plant needs it. This means that with a few exceptions the soil should be permitted to become reasonably dry before water is given.

Good Wiring System Major Home Factor

A HOME with a well-designed wiring system is a better home and will withstand obsolescence longer, according to the House and Home Finance Agency.

Reason for this is that electrical usage in the home is increasing by leaps and bounds. Wiring based only on today's needs may be obsolete in a few years.

Average Count
Today the average home has at least 11 electrical appliances and twice that number of lamps and lighting fixtures.

Many 20-year-old homes already are electrically obsolete, necessitating widespread use of makeshift extension cords. In many cases the wire itself is too small to supply current for the large use of electricity.

Space For Storage
AMPLE space for the storage of food, utensils and dishes in the kitchen of the average home can be provided in eight running feet of wall cabinets and 13½ feet of base cabinets.

Small Pots
Plants in small pots will, of course, dry out quicker than those in larger ones. Exposure to light and heat also affects them. Actively growing plants need more moisture than those taking a rest.

Never apply more at any time than the soil will hold. There never should be any need to empty a saucer, but if it should happen, remove the seepage within a quarter of an hour after it has collected.

When you're choosing a new paint color for a room, consider the natural lighting it receives if you spend many daylight hours there. If it is a dark and gloomy room, you can add warmth and charm by using one of the warm colors on the walls, such as a tint or tone of red, orange, yellow or yellow-green.

The new paints are so easy to apply successfully these days that it is possible to transform a room completely in a very few hours.

why is a weathermaker home so much more comfortable?

A Weathermaker Home is equipped with the famous Carrier Weathermaker Air Conditioner. In summer it uses safe, dependable electric refrigeration to keep the entire house cool and comfortable, no matter how hot the weather. In winter it maintains uniform temperatures throughout the house with reliable forced warm air heat. All year long it circulates clean, filtered air.

Cracks In Floor Cause Accidents

HIGHLY waxed floors are old standby for cartoons about the unwary man who suddenly finds himself doing a back flip or sliding across the living room on a skating rug.

You can fall just as hard, however, when you trip on cracks that develop between the boards of wood floors.

If the cracks are caused by shrinking floor boards in a new house, you have good reason to suspect unseasoned flooring. In this case you'll probably wind up with some pretty wide open spaces to fill in.

Under normal conditions, minor cracks—say up to about an eighth of an inch wide—can be packed with a plastic wood that matches the color of your floor. You can also use a mixture of sawdust and shellac, or sawdust and glue, which is preferable for bigger cracks.

High Humidity
Do your filling on a day when the humidity's high, and if it's cold out, have the house very warm so the boards will be at their maximum expansion.

Otherwise they'll squeeze the filling out some later day.

When the boards have shrunk so much that packing filling between them looks like a hopeless job, you can cut narrow strips of wood (or have them cut at a millwork shop) and glue them into the gaps. Unless you get a perfect match you'll have a refinishing job on your hands.

In extreme cases, even the best patching job probably will leave you unhappy at the way it looks.

If the trouble is in just one room, you might want to hide it with a carpet (with a good protective matting underneath).

In entrance foyers or similar small floor areas, a good answer is, covering the whole thing with linoleum or asphalt tiling. Your floor covering dealer will tell you how much you need for a particular space, and will give you directions for doing the job properly.

You'll wind up with a floor that's a lot easier to keep clean, under the traffic of wet shoes and muddy feet, than a wooden one.

Housing Projects
ISRAELI housewives are assisting government agencies in the preparation of plans for new housing projects. More than 2000 of them have submitted their views on what new homes should contain in the way of washing, plumbing and sanitary installations.

New Designed Aluminum Tack-On-Window Frame Simplifies Construction Of Houses

CHICAGO, Jan. 7 (UP)—A newly designed aluminum tack-on-window frame simplifies home construction and cuts installation time and costs.

Don Poor, a representative of the Chicago firm that developed it, says the integral fin-trim frame section meets the needs of varying types of architecture and wall construction.

The fin is attached to a broad extended edge of the window frame and runs the full perimeter of the window. It is pre-punched for nail and screw placement.

Weather Stripping
The assembly-line produced window is a pre-packed unit complete with weather stripping, spiral balances and pull-down handle for the top sash of double-hung styles.

The weather stripping of silicone-treated woolpile is set into an aluminum back. It reduces air infiltration to less than one-half cubic feet per minute for each foot of sash perimeter when subjected to a wind velocity of 25 miles per hour, Poor said.

The window, plus flange unit, is nailed or screwed quickly into sheathing or framing without the use of additional trim or positioning accessories.

The unit also is designed with channel-type frames. These are used for easy installation with clips or anchors in solid brick and concrete block walls. They also can be used in wood frame construction, Poor said.

Adhesives are water-soluble usually. If there is a moisture condition, such as in bathrooms and kitchens, special waterproof adhesive is recommended.

If you plan to cover a flush door with vinyl, check the door frame to make sure there is clearance on the edge to take the thickness of the vinyl material. If covering a new door, fit it into the frame first and make hinge recesses.

YOU CAN cover up your decorating mistakes these days instead of tearing your hair out or going to a psychiatrist to calm your shattered nerves.

A marred wall or a scuffed table top or a door that has been scuffed and kicked by tiny feet may be treated to a fancy overcoat to hide the nicks, offering easier cleanability as a dividend. In some instances, you can do your cover up just before the company comes.

Walls have been treated to new glamor, not only with the wonderful paper murals, now available, but with plastic textured and plain coverings, in colors, simulating brick or bamboo, and other familiar materials.

Sheets of rigid washable vinyl in two by four sheets for instance, may be installed quickly and easily over any surface—paper, plastic, plaster, without tools by the home handy woman. Just apply adhesive to the backing and press on the wall. The bamboo makes a lovely dado treatment for sunroom, dining room or living room also.

Vinyl fabric is available, too, by the yard through local distributors—wall-paper and paint stores and mail order houses. The fabric runs to 54 inches, and may be used lengthwise or horizontally, as in the instance of covering a door. If it is applied outside the door, seams should be inside the door. Textured patterns may be butted successfully so seams are unnoticeable.

Adhesives are water-soluble usually. If there is a moisture condition, such as in bathrooms and kitchens, special waterproof adhesive is recommended.

If you plan to cover a flush door with vinyl, check the door frame to make sure there is clearance on the edge to take the thickness of the vinyl material. If covering a new door, fit it into the frame first and make hinge recesses.

Heat Available For Cold-Frames

ELECTRIC heating cables and thermostats may be obtained to turn cold-frames into electric hot-beds.

The current consumed costs little, and the even heat gives better results than the old-fashioned hotbed could equal.

Weather Stripping
The assembly-line produced window is a pre-packed unit complete with weather stripping, spiral balances and pull-down handle for the top sash of double-hung styles.

The weather stripping of silicone-treated woolpile is set into an aluminum back. It reduces air infiltration to less than one-half cubic feet per minute for each foot of sash perimeter when subjected to a wind velocity of 25 miles per hour, Poor said.

The window, plus flange unit, is nailed or screwed quickly into sheathing or framing without the use of additional trim or positioning accessories.

The unit also is designed with channel-type frames. These are used for easy installation with clips or anchors in solid brick and concrete block walls. They also can be used in wood frame construction, Poor said.

Paint Name On Can

LOST OR misplaced garbage cans are a proverbial problem. One solution is to paint family names or initials on garbage cans and their covers. To insure good adhesion of paint, it is advisable to wipe the galvanized steel of the can with a cloth which has been dampened in a vinegar and water solution.

PURITY IS A WORD Webster describes as freedom from foulness or dirt.

Apparently the American Association of College Baseball Coaches are having a rough time staying within Webster's definition in their battle with major and minor league baseball clubs.

At the present the college coaches are going all out in an attempt to establish a lucrative summer baseball league setup, whereby college baseball players may not toss away their eligibility and still reap some of the benefits of "organized" ball.

The AACBC purpose is to allow college players to strut their stuff in loops that don't pay for the ballplayer's services but only dole out cash for a 32-hour a week position aside their diamond chores.

Recommendations sent to the NCAA, the governing body of the baseball group, suggests, in part, jobs paying $325 a month and room and board for the chattel of the resort, lumber or industrial magnates.

This, the AACBC hopes, will keep the majors and minors away somewhat from their prize diamond pupils until they graduate.

There is no doubt that if a major club wants a certain ballplayer in college circles, no college "semi-pro" circuit, sanctioned by colleges will stop the big leaguer from getting his hands on the youth.

It seems the collegians are defeating their own purpose of purity by coming out with their latest "fight fire with fire" suggestion. There is no such thing as in-between. Either a college ballplayer is an amateur or he is a pro.

Walter Byers, National Collegiate Athletic Association executive director, has been quoted as saying that some summer leagues have made excessive payments to college athletes.

In the next breath he says "the problem is to work out a program which will permit summer competition short of the professional level."

The colleges are in the fight to try and stem the major share of campus stars. Undoubtedly, as Byers remarked, anything short of pro level will help the collegians cause.

Perhaps ignorance on the matter is bliss, but we don't know how the AACBC can get around boasting an amateur when he actually is in the play-for-pay ranks.

We've seen far less taints on amateurism repulsed with furore, via the cracking hand of the NCAA and the AAU. Perhaps, a body within a body, holds more ice than an individual on the tail end of a group.

BOWLING TIDBITS—Frank Laize captured the first half average race in the Pocono Major League with a 171 norm. Second was Pete Arnold with 169, followed by Harold Storm, 165; A. Poorman, 163; and C. Pechatka, 161.

In the final first half matches in the Monroe Classic three kiegars went over the 600 mark. They were Dick Andress, 632; Oscar Stuckey, 616 and Dr. Gail Fegley, 609. Andress and Fegley had single games of 246 each.

The Monroe County circuit saw Lou Lee pound out a three-game high of 623, via 231 singleton, and Dick MacDonough gain a one-game high of 234.

Other high triples were posted by Dave Besecker, 568; Frank Hochriner, 563, and Angelo J. DeSanto, 560.

Brown Heads NFL All-Star Teams

By JOE RICHLER
The Associated Press

THE SAN FRANCISCO 49ers Wednesday placed four men on The Associated Press National Football League all-star team. The world champion Detroit Lions, Green Bay Packers and Baltimore Colts had three representatives.

Jimmy Brown of the Cleveland Browns was the only player named on all 36 ballots of the sports writers, who covered the NFL campaign in the various cities from coast to coast. The brilliant freshman received 34 votes for the fullback position and two for the left halfback post on the offensive team.

Gino Marchetti of Baltimore polled the most votes on the defensive squad, being named on 35 ballots. Joe Schmidt, the Lions' stalwart linebacker, attracted 34 votes, more than San Francisco's Billy Wilson, who won the left end post on the offensive team and three more than Washington's Gene Brito, who captured the right end position on the defensive team.

All But Eagles
Every member of the 12-club circuit is represented except the Philadelphia Eagles, who placed a man on the second defensive team, linebacker Chuck Bednarik. The Browns, who won the Eastern Division title but were routed by Detroit 50-14 in the championship playoff, placed only one man on the first teams. So did Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, the Chicago Bears and Chicago Cardinals. The New York Giants and Washington Redskins earned two positions.

In addition to Schmidt, the Lions were represented by halfback Jack Christensen (25 votes) on the defensive unit and tackle Lou Creekmur (17) on the offensive team. San Francisco's contributions, in addition to Wilson, were quarterback Y. A. Tittle (24) on the attacking squad and tackle Leo Nomellini (18) and linebacker Marv Matukas (17) on defense.

Packers Place
The Packers placed end Billy Howton (26) and center Jim Ringo (23) on the offensive team and halfback Bobby Dillon (29) on the defensive unit. Other Colts who made the first teams were tackle Art Donovan (30) and safety Milt Davis (19) on defense.

There were 11 repeaters from last year's two-division team. These included New York's Roosevelt Brown, tackle, and Frank Gifford, left halfback; Washington's Dick Stanfel, guard; Chicago Cardinals' Ollie Matson, right halfback; Chicago Bears' Bill George, middleguard; and Howton, Creekmur, Brito, Donovan, Schmidt and Christensen.

Williams' 25 Fails To Save Mountaineers

TED WILLIAMS threw in 25 points but the better-than-average output failed to save Stroudsburg High from going down to a 37-36 defeat at the hands of Northampton in the Mountaineers' gymnasium last night.

The low-scoring Lehigh Valley League inaugural for both sides saw the Mountaineers throw away many scoring chances as the Konkrete Kids threw periodic presses to halt the locals attack.

Only three Stroudsburg players were able to break into the scoring column. Tom Gross, with nine, and Jeff Weichel, with a field goal, were the other Mountaineers joining Williams on the attack.

Balanced Attack
Northampton presented a balanced attack with no player in the double figures, but five around the five to eight-point mark. Hersham and Kellner were high with eight apiece.

Northampton jumped off to a 13-7 lead in the opening period and held a 25-17 edge at half-time. Starting the second half Stroudsburg crept back to only a one-point deficit, 26-27. Both sides matched 10 points in the final eight minutes.

The loss gave Stroudsburg a 6-4 mark for season and enabled Northampton, by winning, to even its record at 4-4.

J.V.s Lose Too
Stroudsburg also lost the preliminary, bowing to Northampton's junior varsity, 58-23.

Hart To Face Baker On TV

CHICAGO, Jan. 7 (AP)—Explosive-punching Sugar Hart and clever Larry Baker battle for a fresh start in the welterweight "sweepstakes" at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night in a nationally televised bout.

Hart, 21, a Philadelphia native with 19 knockouts in his 22 victories, is rated an 11-5 favorite in the 10-rounder which will be televised beginning at 10 p.m. EST, via ABC.

However, Baker, 26, from Mount Vernon, N.Y., is ranked No. 8, one notch ahead of Hart, in the current National Boxing Assn. ratings.

Tomorrow night's winner should make progress in the scramble for Carmen Basilio's vacated 147-pound crown, but how much is conjectural.

Hart, National AAU champion before turning pro in 1954, has a 23-1 record, Baker, a 21-11-3 record.

NCAA Council 'Solves' Prep Schooling
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7 (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. Council today published its solution to the problem of the lack of preparation for college-level play. The proposed rule says, in effect, that colleges may not directly or indirectly arrange or finance precollege or postgraduate education for athletes. These specific bans never were written into the NCAA rules although the general idea was there.

May Approve
The proposal states that the council, by a two-thirds vote "may approve a procedure involving preparation for entrance into academies of the U.S. government for students who on admission are committed to regular service in the armed forces."

Explaining the rather unusual ruling to the press, NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers said the council took into consideration the peculiar problems and longstanding practices of the service academies of the U.S. government. He said this opportunity for a waiver of the rule did not necessarily mean the academies may continue their present practices. Rather they will be required to tell the council what they plan to do and to secure approval for these plans.

Foul Misses Sends Stags To 1st Loss

MOSCOW — Poor marksmanship from the foul line cost Greene-Dreher-Sterling its first setback of the season here last night as Moscow squeezed out a 32-31 victory over the Stags in a Southern Division Wayne Conference game.

The Stags made only five of 20 charity throws and the off-the-mark spelled the team's record at 5-1. Moscow is undefeated in eight games.

Rally In Fourth
A fourth period rally nearly pulled the Stags out of the woods as the G-D-S five surged back to within one, practically overtaking an eight-point Moscow lead.

Greene-Dreher-Sterling's junior varsity dropped the preliminary game to Moscow's J.V.s, 35-29.

COPLAY — Coplay High's superiority off the backboards proved the difference as the Wildcats downed Bangor, 78-66, in a Lehigh-Northampton League game here last night.

The Slaters, smaller in stature, couldn't cope with Bob Trively and Jack Superka as the Coplay pair tossed in 21 and 17 and controlled the rebounds.

Game-scoring laurels, however, went to Bangor's Larry Corey and Frankie Butz who finished up the night with 24 and 22 markers respectively.

Duane Labar's 24 points led Bangor's jayvees to a 56-55 overtime win in the preliminary game between the underlings of both schools.

West Chester, 4-5 on the season, is led by Terry German, former all-state player from Allentown High.

'Big Ed' Walsh
Is Hospitalized

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Jan. 7—(By Edward Arthur (Big Ed) Walsh, 76, former iron man pitcher star of the Chicago White Sox and a member of the Baseball Hall of Fame, is ill.

Holy Cross Hospital said Walsh was admitted Saturday on his doctor's advice and was suffering from a "general rundown condition."

He is expected to be released next Tuesday.

The hospital tonight listed Walsh's condition as "fair" and said he had undergone blood transfusions.

A hospital spokesman said Walsh "is somewhat depressed and would appreciate cards or letters from baseball fans."

Walsh has been a resident of nearby Pompano Beach since last May, coming to Florida from Plains, Pa.

He won his iron man title while pitching 14 years in the majors, 13 of them with the White Sox.

Among his most memorable feats was twice winning two games in one day and posting 40 wins against 14 losses in 1908.

FOR WEDNESDAY, JAN. 8, 1958

January 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Be amiable even though things may be a bit trying. Amiability can temper many a rough situation. Be interested in the welfare of your family, loved ones, children. Subdue angry impulses.

April 21 to June 21 (Taurus)—Day stresses a need for conservative procedure, possibly some recheck. Be progressive, however, and keep your objectives in view. Don't make hasty decisions. Hint: Interests may require attention.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Be alert to the many opportunities available. Channel your efforts where needed, where they will do the most good, for you and for others. Don't shirk any obligations.

June 22 to July 21 (Cancer)—Worthwhile goals can be reached today and personal achievement assured. If you can't find the best use of your ability and talents, Be careful in many matters.

July 22 to August 21 (Leo)—Your path may not quite be clear; resist your goals and re-check plans. Methods look better, however, when hidden, and don't be discouraged by slow progress. Give this the real test: treatment and you will advance.

August 22 to September 21 (Virgo)—Mind influences. Try to instill confidence in others so they will fall in with your plans. Coordinate activities to coincide with requirements. lofty desires, hopes.

September 22 to October 21 (Libra)—Don't be reckless now. Avoid extremes in all things, and be realistic in your appraisal of situations before acting.

October 22 to November 21 (Scorpio)—Mixed influences. You can push too much but you can bestir yourself in tackling essential. Exercise your dormant talents; they could give you the upper hand in dealings.

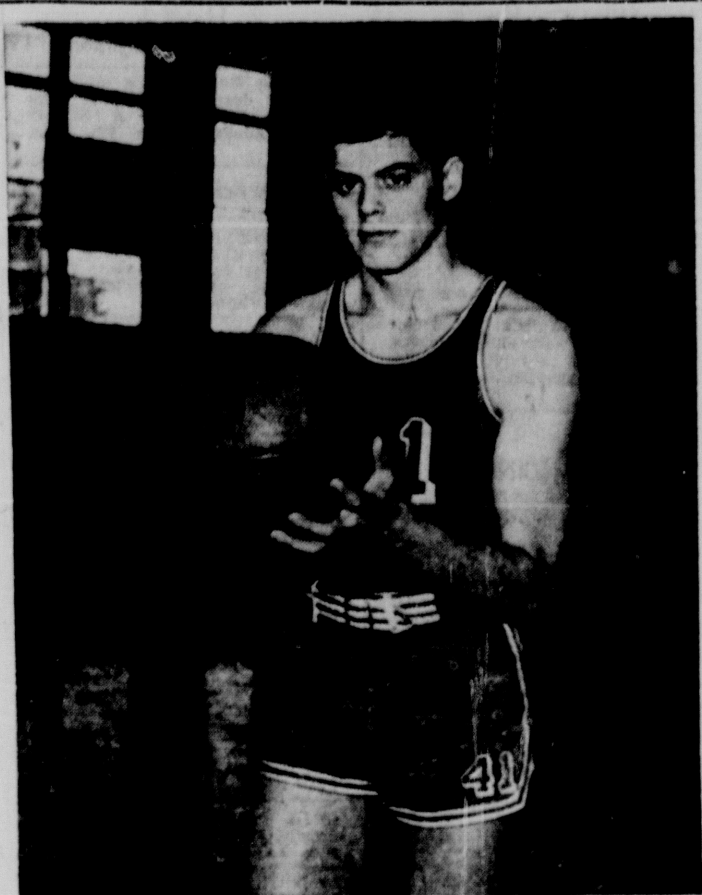

November 22 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Some very helpful influences now. Be very concerned with immediate duties. Don't permit little things to bother you or reduce your effectiveness.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—Do not get lost in a maze of details. This is a good period for simplification of method and the introduction of novelty into routine. Gains won't come automatically; you'll only get what you earn.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)—Try the new (if truly an improvement). Attract the interest of intelligent associates, well-informed persons. Execute tasks with sprightly know-how for sure results. Relax in free time.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—If you know you are not to be dissuaded from forging on toward objectives. Be faithful and diplomatic, however. Don't tackle more than is reasonable but do be ambitious.

BORN TODAY are innately cautious and ambitious. You can hurdle obstacles while others hesitate, because you sensibly realize that obstacles are a part of life and should not deter righteous enthusiasms. Curb tendencies toward indifference and pessimism. Associate with cheerful people. Business adversities can spur you to greater attainments if you live on the high plane. You have great dignity and the gift of concentration, but don't be impatient with others.

PENSYL GOING GREAT GUNS—Bill Pensyl, former East Stroudsburg High basketball star, is having his finest season on the hardwoods, pacing Elizabethtown College's five. Pensyl, a native of Portland, is averaging 25 points per game in helping the Blue Jays post a 3-3 record.

PIE Factor Reveals TV Still Hits Grid Attendance

By JIM KENSIL

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7—NCAA delegates today received a statistical picture emphasizing the importance of the relationship of college football television to attendance.

Using a formula called PIE—Population, Income and Enrollment—the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau arrived at figures showing that although economic factors affecting the sale of foot tickets favorably increased 3.6 per cent, attendance at college games jumped only 1.4 per cent.

The bureau concluded that the figures show the harmful effects of even limited television have not been eliminated or neutralized. If they had, the Bureau said, the PIE factor would not have risen almost three times as much as the attendance figure.

The bureau's report, which was part of that presented by the NCAA's 1957 Television Committee, ventured that if the economic growth continued to advance at the same rate, college football ticket sales would reach record heights despite TV.

Same Economically
If the Pacific Coast area were to be eliminated from the attendance figures the attendance increase for the rest of the country would be 3.65 per cent, or almost as much as the economic increase.

The bureau said internal troubles in the Pacific Coast Conference, principally among the California schools, can be blamed for the national average showing only a 1.4 gain.

NCAA District 8, which includes the PCC, suffered the biggest attendance loss, 3.2 per cent.

The outgoing NCAA television Committee read a lengthy report and a recommendation that the new committee pay a lot more attention to pay-as-you-see television. There was hardly a word of comment.

'Fair Month' Among Most Popular In Region

farm boy, Glenn Gilby, looked into a milk cooler partly-filled with water. The child fell in. Firemen worked for two hours trying to revive him. They did not succeed.

The Highways Department in Harrisburg sent out the news that $2428,502 had been spent on reconstruction of bridges in Monroe. And the job still wasn't over.

Monroe Industries

A new sub-division of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce was formed. It was called Monroe Industries Inc. And it had as its goal the purchase of land to attract new industry to the area. A drive for funds began.

Brightest spot in the news during August for most of us was that the Salk polio vaccine appeared to be working magnificently. Even brighter for Monroe County: a State Health Department report (under 20) had received the first shot in the three-shot series. And 9,007 of those had been given their second shot.

Although the State Health Department could not say so, local residents knew the reason Monroe County led the State in percentage of children who had been given protection. Earlier in the year (see January and February in this series) the Monroe County Medical Society had embarked upon a courageous free polio shot program in which doctors, nurses and others donated their services. It was the best program of its kind in the state. But only a handful of those who had reason to be grateful for the program took the time to express that gratitude.

Some sidelights on the news of the month:

The Air Force agreed that it would not make its own ice cream, pastries and stuff out at the AF Academy in Colorado. Senators called it a victory for private enterprise. We thought it was probably a victory for the aerial stomach.

The Lehigh Valley Antique Automobile Assn. turned in for a short tour of pleasantry at Shawnee Inn. Members staged a fashion show in which the ladies and gentlemen wore clothes to match their vintage cars. We were suitably horrified. Not because we didn't think the cars were nice. It was just that the girls dressed in the flapper costumes with the skullcaps that fit over both ears looked almost exactly as though they had stepped out of a 1937 Lord and Taylor window. We figured time may have flown but the tortured minds of fashion designers were forever the same. No matter how it looked, there had to be a new "style" every year.

Out near Eagle Valley Corners a young man asked dad for the use of the family car. Dad said no. So police said Harry Whitmore, 25, went out, smashed windows and set fire to the tires and burned 'em down to the rim; later had to be "forcibly removed" from the car.

William Schiebel, Trumatic Machine and Tool Co., won patent number 2,801,772 for a lawn spreader. The machine had been selling "very nicely" for Trumatic. Bill said, and it was a marked improvement over past types. We were still waiting for the man who would invent a weed unsprayer or what have you. Then we figured we'd just let the green grass grow.

New Industries
Just as the Chamber of Commerce announced that two new industries were "interested" in opening up shop around here a new industry really did open up without much fanfare. It was called Boyd Manufacturing. It was located in Cherry Valley. It manufactured slingshots, water skis and other sports goods. B. Weitzman Co., Brooklyn, N.Y., said it was going to open

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

up in the former Ronson plant on Harris St., East Stroudsburg, too.

News of an auction by the Toll Bridge Commission attracted its share of attention. Among things to be sold: a catcher's mitt (left by a penniless motorist who just had to make it across one of those pay-as-you-go bridges) and a set of 24 beautifully-matched salad mixing bowls. The salad bowls were left over from the previous bridge commission. They're the ones, you'll recall, who hired a night club entertainer (Miss TNT from Gay Page, wasn't it?) to take stenographic notes. (We could hear it plain: "As soon as you're finished with that salad dressing, would you jot down a few things, miss?")

Thousands of persons turned out during "fair time." Officials of the West End Fair, at Gilbert, called it one of the most successful events in years. Ditto the Blue Valley show in the Slate Belt and the Wayne-Pike-

Monroe show up at Newfoundland. Two other tragedies marred the news scene: At Pittsburgh airport, John H. Macpherson, 34, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Macpherson, Bushkill, was killed in a plane crash. At Sciota, Mrs. Cassia Tranchina, Brooklyn, N.Y., was killed when the family car was wrapped around a tree.

A group of teen-agers in this area were involved in a shoplifting gang. It had been operating in and out of local department stores for some time, officials said. The children were given a hearing before Burgess Hal H. Harris on Aug. 23. They were fined. Most of the articles stolen were returned. No one had a final explanation to the question: What made them do it? But some officials held partly to the belief that it had been "just for kicks."

One of the officials (from the old school) said that was okay and maybe someone ought to give them one.

Terrells Add Freshness To Discussion Of Modern Theater In United States

By Leonard Randolph
LISTENING to St. John Terrell talk about theatre is refreshing.

And one of the biggest reasons is his wife.

At dinner during the early part of the Dutch Treat Club meeting Monday night, Mrs. Terrell smiled frequently and said little. But when she talked there was well worth listening to.

"We're not like a lot of theatre people," she said at one point. "You're always finding some of these actors or actresses who leave the theatre and never set foot in it again. I don't see how they can do it. We love the theatre and we go as often as we can."

Terrell agreed with that. He said there was nothing he liked better than watching a fine play or a musical.

The lanky music tent owner went on to mention a recent tour of Europe he and his wife had taken. And this brought him to a short discussion on theatre in this country.

Here in America, he said, "unhappily the theatre is confined to a small area." Outside

New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, the legitimate theatre has little chance, he said.

But in Germany nearly every small town has its theatre, he said. "And this in a country which had such great hardship during the war."

Terrell is a man who has done his share in the fight to "bring theatre to the people." Until he came along there were no "music tents" in this country.

Although the comparison might seem odd to some, the idea of the "tent" is basically similar to the theatre townspeople in Europe knew hundreds of years ago.

It also bears a marked resemblance to the utilitarian so-called "arena" staging used by the Armed Forces during World War Two.

But Terrell has done one thing which no other American theatrical impresario or manager had tried to do, up to his time. He has proved that audiences everywhere will buy good musical entertainment — without "name stars."

Terrell has had his share of the "big names" at his theatre. But for every show that has succeeded because of the "star", there have been dozens which have been put over on their own merits—because they had talented cost members, good music and lively production values.

Watching the Terrells at table Monday night at the Penn-Stroud and listening to them, it was easy to see why.

St. John Terrell is a man who wants to give people what they want in theatre. If he instructs them or elevates them along the way, that's fine, too.

But he's running his theatre to keep people happy—and coming back.

Away from the lectern he is a lively conversationalist. Exchanging light banter with Ward and Betty Kelper, Mary and Ed Driebe or Tom Waring, he is an amusing person with a strong personality.

Terrell projects much more of his love for theatre and, more importantly, theatre as art, in his normal conversation than he does in his formal pedagogy.

YMCA Plans Drive For Memberships

E. HOLT WYCKOFF, Jr., chairman of the membership committee of the Monroe County YMCA, announced yesterday that Monday, Jan. 13, marks the opening of the annual membership drive.

One hundred members and friends of the association have been enlisted to participate in soliciting members.

The campaign this year will be in the form of a train race from Hoboken to Stroudsburg. Four trains will leave the Lackawanna Railroad station in Hoboken at the same time, Wyckoff said, and gather members on the way. They are expected to arrive at the East Stroudsburg station with full loads, he added.

The goal set for each train is 200 members amounting to $2,000. Those in charge of trains will be known as division superintendents. They are Horace Walters, Alex Bensinger, Thomas Kistler and Albert Yutz.

The Walters train will be known as the Western; Kistler's as the Phoebe Snow; Bensinger's as the Merchants Express, and the Yutz train as the Owl.

Campaign meetings are scheduled for Jan. 13 (kickoff); Jan. 17 (second report) and Jan. 27 (final report).

Licenses For Dogs

DOG LICENSES for 1958 are now on sale at the office of J. Nelson Westbrook, county treasurer.

Licenses should be picked up as soon as possible. All dogs over six months of age must be licensed by State law.

Cost of licenses is: Male — $1.10; female — $2.10; spayed female — $1.10.

Possible Penalties

Violation of the dog license law may bring a penalty of "no less than $5 or more than $100 or imprisonment for not over 30 days or both the fine and imprisonment," Westbrook said last night.

A new regulation added to the dog license code provides that "any person owning or harboring an unlicensed dog or dogs forfeits his right to be reimbursed for any damage to poultry or other livestock by dogs."
